Kansas City, MO, November 15, 2024: Eight artists have been selected to participate in Charlotte Street’s 2025–2026 Crossroads Artboards program, supported in part by the Crossroads Community Association and Mid-America Arts Alliance. Located in the heart of Kansas City’s Crossroads Arts District at 125 Southwest Blvd, the Artboards will feature eight commissioned works every three months on the exterior, double-sided billboards. The artists selected for the 2025–2026 cycle are Jackson Daughety, Max Dlabick, Eric German, Adrienne Hoard, Nora Snyder, Kati Toivanen, Casey Whittier/Andrew Castañeda/Erin Conyers, and Yulie Urano.

The works featured traverse realms of memory, identity, and illusion, from Nora Snyder’s Obscura, where shadow puppets evoke the magic of light and ancient lore, to Casey Whittier, Andrew Castañeda, and Erin Conyers’ documentation of movement and craft, where clay becomes a record of embodied practice. Jackson Daughety critiques modern power structures with layered landscapes and faith-based performances, while Kati Toivanen reflects her personal journey as a genetic mosaic, visualizing healing and transformation. Eric German’s stop-motion landscapes reveal hidden forms through light, while Yulie Urano's sashiko embroidery, integrating family hair, threads together ancestry and identity. Max Dlabick envisions a surreal stampede down Southwest Boulevard, and Adrienne Hoard celebrates the beauty and resilience of women's hands in service to community and self-expression.

The 2025-2026 Crossroads Artboards schedule is as follows:

April-June 2025: Adrienne Hoard (West), Yulie Urano (East)

July-September 2025: Kati Toivanen (West), Casey Whittier/Andrew Castañeda/Erin Conyers (East)

October-December 2025: Max Dlabick (West), Nora Snyder (East)

January-March 2026: Eric German (West), Jackson Daughety (East)

The jury for the Artboards consists of four professional artists in a variety of media, curators, educators, critical art writers, and cultural activists – all from the Kansas City region with at least one juror who lives or works in the Crossroads Arts District. The jurors for the 2025-2026 cycle were Barry Anderson, Zach Frazier, Hùng Lê, and Lisa Maione.
